About this Release

On Friday, October 14th the rock band Evership publishes their fourth album, the conclusion of the Rock Opera The Uncrowned King! With nine tracks and a runtime at just under an hour, The Uncrowned King - Act 2 concludes the epic adaptation of Harold Bell Wright's 1910 allegory of Life and Truth. The album exudes Evership's immersive neo-prog style with a focus on songwriting and story-telling, but with no shortage of satisfying instrumental performances. The elevated vocals of Beau West bring the passion of the story to life. As an added bonus, the album is graced with a performance by SAGA front-man Michael Sadler!

The Story: The Uncrowned King - Act 2

Act 1 ends when the twin Princes Really-Is and Seemsto-Be, who visiting the land of Yettocome, receive a message that King What-So-Ever-You-Think has died. Act 2 begins with the second-born seizing opportunity and rushing back to the city of Allthetime where he dubiously claims the throne. How will the first-born, the rightful heir, gain back his kingdom? Act 2 brings home the themes of Wright's story; that truth is ultimately independent of our perceptions, that deception comes at a cost, and that truth and honesty bring peace and unity. An emotional and introspective album, Evership pulls you into the characters and into our collective search for truth and meaning.

About Evership

Rock band Evership is the conceptualization of composer, multi-instrumentalist and producer/engineer Shane Atkinson, along with lead vocalist Beau West. The response to The Uncrowned King - Act 1 was astounding. Highland (Issue #108) hails Evership as "firmly establishing themselves in the Progressive American Landscape" and UK's ProgRadar sites "Evership is the new face of American Prog". Few recent indie acts have made a bigger splash than Evership in the world of modern art/progressive and symphonic rock.
